

I was born and raised in Panama of a Jewish father and a Catholic mother. I was raised Catholic but in 1978 I received the baptism of the Holy Spirit. I've been in Pentecostal churches ever since. I have four children and three grandchildren. I taught high school Spanish for a few years. Later on I became a Spanish interpreter both in federal as well as in state courts. I was a court interpreter for over thirty years but mostly working part time. My Christian journey has included many faith building experiences. My husband and I have been married for fifty years.
